SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1870.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, from its original establishment, has been in the receipt of telegraphic news from the New York Associated Press, which consists of the Tribune, Times, Herald, World, Sun, Journal of Commerce, Evening Post, Commercial Advertiser, and Evening Express. The success which has attended our enterprise is, in itself, a sufficient evidence of the freshness, fullness, and reliability of the news which we have received from this source.

The earliest regular edition of THE EVENING TELEGRAPH goes to press at 1 1/2 o'clock, and the subsequent regular editions at 2 1/2, 3 1/2, and 4 1/2. Whenever there is important news of the progress of the European war, extra editions will be issued after this hour, and before the regular time for the early edition.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

We are glad to notice that the proposed Convention continues to attract the favorable attention of a number of journals in the interior, and that the necessity for a radical revision of the fundamental law of the Commonwealth is generally acknowledged. The ultimate success of this movement will depend in a large degree upon the spirit in which it is conducted and the character of the delegates chosen by the people.

THE DEMOCRATIC PROGRAMME.

The Democratic politicians of New York have made up their minds to claim not merely the leadership of the party, in a general sense, but the next Presidential nominee. To answer the objections likely to arise from Seymour's candidacy in 1868, with its disastrous consequences, the World alleges that that nomination was forced upon the last National Convention by the Western Democracy despite Seymour's protests and the opposition of the New York delegation.

A BUREAU OF NAVAL JUSTICE.

PLATO wrote a rather extensive work for the purpose of defining justice, but the impossible commonwealth by means of which alone he concluded that abstract justice could be realized, presented a good many peculiar features that we Americans, who live under a republic that is some degrees removed from ideal perfection, would consider manifestly unjust.

law. To go no further back than the war for the suppression of the Rebellion, the records of the Navy Department will show how Secretary Welles repeatedly set aside sentences of naval courts-martial which were contrary to law, and how the stinging rebukes that he administered time and again to the officers comprising such courts were unable to produce any decided reform in the administration of naval justice.

NOTICES. FALL OVERCOATS.—Light and Medium Weight, just the thing for cool mornings and evenings, also for moderately cool weather all winter. More useful, in fact, than a heavy overcoat, and which, lower in price, but as important in the city, and sold at lowest price.
